Nancy Smith is a leading member of Moore & Van Allen's Public Affairs team, where she delivers policy and legislative counsel to her clients. Her experience extends across the country with federal, state and local issues facing her clients.

Ms. Smith has managed public policy campaigns in more than 30 states on complex environmental, energy, health care and business issues including brownfield redevelopment projects, climate change initiatives, local tax matters and trade and commerce concerns. She has executed strategic communication efforts and grassroots constituency-building campaigns and managed large educational and media events across the country to support policy initiatives.

Ms. Smith counsels clients on creation, administration and compliance for political action committees under Federal and state laws. Ms. Smith has published articles and papers on the significance of proactive governmental participation by business and industry in environmental protection and on federal campaign finance reform.
