Steve Gerko's experience administering federal political action committees ("PACs") and over a dozen state PACs give him substantive industry knowledge of the wide variety of regulations across the country. He works with clients to ensure their PACs are fully integrated into a successful government affairs strategy.

Mr. Gerko assists clients with preparing and filing periodic reports for federal and state agencies that provide transparency to PAC activities in over 13 states. He has almost half a decade of experience creating, registering, and advising the political committees of his clients.

Mr. Gerko developed his analytical skills during attainment of degrees in Aerospace Engineering and Mathematics Education from West Virginia University and in his position as adjunct professor for Pennsylvania State University.
