Jeff Gray concentrates his practice on intellectual property with a focus on patent and trademark prosecution and is preparing to sit for the U.S. Patent Bar Exam.

Jeff's prosecution practice includes drafting and prosecution of domestic and foreign patent applications for Fortune 500 companies, patent invalidity and infringement opinions, as well as domestic and international trademark procurement and prosecution. A trained mechanical engineer with corporate design engineering experience and a MBA, Jeff's background has allowed him to pursue patents for mechanical, electrical, business methods, and software inventions.

Jeff has also had experience with drafting various licensing agreements in the intellectual property field.
