Chevonna Nimmons-Wright assists clients with managing responses to government legislative and regulatory initiatives that have potential impacts on their businesses. She ensures that clients are aware of proposed changes in the rules and regulations that affect them and enables clients to craft a strategy to manage the outcome.

Mrs. Nimmons-Wright has over two years of regulatory experience, including employment with the United States Department of Energy in the National Nuclear Security Administration and at NASA in the Office of General Counsel.

Mrs. Nimmons-Wright monitors legislation and regulations on the federal level and in 13 states. She has successfully identified government activities that concern clients' overall business and financial interests.

Mrs. Nimmons-Wright conducts research and analysis of clients' host communities to identify key stakeholders, influencers, and decision makers to assist clients in developing strong relationships with these interested parties.
