

TRANSPORTATION, INFRASTRUCTURE & LOGISTICS

Our multidisciplinary group of transactional, regulatory, and litigation attorneys has decades of combined experience in transportation, infrastructure, and logistics management on a regional, national, and global scale.

Transportation and robust infrastructure are critical to the economic vitality and health of individuals, businesses and the communities in which they thrive. We are witnessing the rapid transformation of the transportation sector, driven by several forces, including technological innovation, demographic changes, and shifts in funding considerations. These developments are having a profound impact on everything from the daily movement of people to the production and distribution of goods and the planning and design of infrastructure, cities and communities nationwide.

Our multidisciplinary group of transactional, regulatory, and litigation attorneys is experienced in transportation, infrastructure, and logistics management in a wide variety of transportation modes, on a regional, national, and global scale. With decades of combined experience, our attorneys are well-equipped to guide clients through the dynamic legal landscape impacting aspects of their businesses, and to help position them for success during this period of change and burgeoning opportunity.
