Charleston Employment & Labor Associate Brandon Gaskins was selected for the Leadership Charleston Class of 2014-2015. The 10-month program began with a two-day orientation in September and culminates with a graduation ceremony in June. In between, class members attend one full-day session per month.

At each session, state and local business and community leaders share knowledge through lively discussions and activities that highlight real situations, needs and opportunities within the metro area. Leadership Charleston also offers first-hand experience through site visits and operational tours of area facilities.
