Energy Member Brian Heslin was interviewed and quoted by Bloomberg reporter Tom Schoenberg, for the article "Hedge Fund Twins Stage Campaign Against Energy Regulator," which published on April 10. The article discusses a small Pennsylvania hedge fund's public campaign to stop Norman Bay from being confirmed as the next chairman of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

"We're going to see an adjustment from the market in that they're not just going to roll over on every investigation," Heslin stated. "To the extent that FERC's kind of getting out of their comfort zone, you're going to see more and more folks willing to push them to win it."
