Moore & Van Allen Commercial and Technology Transactions Senior Counsel Todd Taylor was published in the Technology section of InsideCounsel.com on November 30. In the article, "Technology: 4 important issues to address in the brave new world of BYOD programs," Taylor addresses increasingly prevalent Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) programs and four legal issues companies need to understand and address before implementing such a program. These issues include: employer liability; employer monitoring/employee privacy; data protection and litigation prospects.

Taylor will be authoring five additional technology-related columns for InsideCounsel in the months to come.
