

CROSS-BORDER INVESTIGATIONS AND DEFENSE

Our attorneys lead investigations around the globe with an agile business approach to successfully manage sensitive matters across time zones.

---

In today's global business environment, cross-border investigations are more and more often the rule rather than the exception. Successful cross-border investigations require experienced counsel who can coordinate teams of lawyers and consultants in many countries and time zones to keep them in sync; counsel who are sensitive to regulatory and legal frameworks in all of the relevant countries; and counsel who can put each day's developments in context for the client and, if necessary, the government authorities who are monitoring the investigation. We understand how to conduct successful cross-border investigations because we have been deeply engaged in many of the most significant cross-border investigations of the last decade focusing on LIBOR another financial reference rates, foreign exchange, FCPA, and offshore banking.

We have been engaged to lead investigations on virtually every continent on subjects such as anti-trust, FCPA, and tax in jurisdictions with legal regimes as different as Argentina, Brazil, Singapore, Hong Kong, Thailand, Australia, the European Union, the U.K., South Africa, and Canada.