Chris Hinton helps employers and foreign nationals navigate the complex immigration system with confidence and make informed, strategic decisions. Chris provides guidance on the implications of hiring a foreign worker and the potential road maps to permanent employment.

Chris worked exclusively on PERM for over two years, including developing legally defensible minimum requirements, filing Prevailing Wage Requests, placing and monitoring advertisements, and preparing Form 9089 for filing. He has been responsible for multiple supervised recruitment campaigns and have an advanced understanding of PERM regulations and timelines.

Chris is also proficient with H-1B, L-1, E-2, E-3, TN, O-1, F-1, and K-1 visas. He has personally managed thousands of immigration matters from initiation to approval, serving as the primary point of contact for clients.

His experience in both PERM and nonimmigrant petitions enhances his ability to identify and address issues related to timing and overall case strategy.
