

CATHERINE R. PRATER

Associate, Litigation

t 704.331.3737

catherineprater@mvalaw.com

Catherine Prater is an associate in the Litigation group focusing on complex civil litigation and white collar criminal defense.

Catherine has represented clients in high-stakes trials in state and federal courts. Catherine has experience as a member of the trial team for a three-week trial in North Carolina state court over a disputed will and in the defense of an international bank in the FX antitrust actions pending in federal court in New York. She was also a member of the trial team for three consecutive multi-defendant criminal antitrust conspiracy trials totaling months of trial time in the District of Colorado, which resulted in a not guilty verdict for our client.

Catherine knows the process of taking a case to trial and has experience in the pre-trial stages of litigation, including fact investigation, document discovery, motions, and depositions.

Affiliations

- Women's White Collar Defense Association
- Mecklenburg County Bar - White-Collar Crime/Government Investigations Section
- Walter C. Wattles Fellowship at Lloyd's of London

Capabilities

Antitrust
Civil Litigation
Commercial Litigation
Criminal Defense - Trial and Appellate Litigation, Regulatory & White Collar
White Collar & Government Enforcement Defense

Education

J.D., Duke University School of Law, 2020
B.A., Vanderbilt University, 2014

Admissions

North Carolina, 2020
U.S. District Court for the Western District of North Carolina
U.S. District Court for the District of Colorado