MVA Litigation Associate Jules Carter will serve as a speaker for the Lorman webinar titled, "Potential Bank Regulation Changes Under the Biden Administration" taking place on June 8. Jules will discuss how the financial services regulatory landscape may change in a Biden presidency.

This webinar will highlight the major components of the Biden Administration's policy agenda and discuss how those areas of focus could influence the Administration's approach to regulation across the banking and financial services industries. It will also cover several of President Biden's key agency appointments and discuss how the new administrative leadership is likely to shape the agencies' regulatory and enforcement priorities.
