Human Trafficking Project Makes Front Page Headlines

Carolina Paralegal News
10.2014

Moore & Van Allen's Human Trafficking Project, and project leaders Conflicts Counsel Sarah Byrne, Manager of Diversity and Community Initiatives Stephanie Gryder, and Charlotte Global Services Paralegal Sally Hentz, were featured on the front page article of the most recent issue of Carolina Paralegal News. The article, "Lending a Hand," provides an overview of MVA's trafficking program and initiatives, and spotlights the trafficking epidemic the local community is currently facing.

"Stephanie, Sally and I discovered we had a shared interest in the fight against human trafficking and from there, the project quickly began to take shape," Byrne said.

Carolina Paralegal News is a sister publication of North Carolina Lawyers Weekly and South Carolina Lawyers Weekly, and is available bimonthly as an insert in both publications.
