McGrath's Second Article Published on Corporate Compliance

10.2015

Environmental and Litigation Member Peter McGrath's latest article was featured on Corporate Compliance Insights on October 20. Compliance managers understand the need for stringent protection of confidentiality of employee medical and health information. Managers may not understand, though, that in many cases, requirements to assemble information about workplace injuries and illnesses outweighs the need for such protections. "Do OSHA and HIPAA Rules Stand at Odds" examines the interplay between OSHA recordkeeping and reporting requirements, and HIPAA privacy protection rules.

The article is the second in a series of monthly pieces that McGrath will author for Corporate Compliance.
